

Creating a slide presentation with Google Docs

Open up a new presentation document.

Make the title "presentation introduction".
Put your name and period in the subtitle by clicking in the text box.

Highlight the title and then change the font color by clicking on the text color icon. Choose a color.

Select a theme for your presentation by clicking "Edit" and then "Change theme". Select whatever theme you like.

Google docs

billwblevins@gmail.com | Ne

Presentation Introduction edited on September 8, 2009 3:37 AM by Bill Blevins

Start presenta

The screenshot shows the Google Docs presentation editor interface. The 'Edit' menu is open, and the 'Change theme' option is highlighted with a blue background and a black arrow pointing to it. The menu also includes 'Undo', 'Redo', 'Cut', 'Copy', 'Paste', 'Select all', and 'Change background'. The main slide area contains the text 'Presentation Introduction' and 'Click to add subtitle'. The top navigation bar includes 'File', 'Edit', 'Slide', 'Insert', 'Arrange', 'Table', and 'Help'. The bottom status bar shows '1' and 'P'.

A theme gives consistency to a slide presentation. Looking at a presentation with different color backgrounds and fonts every slide can be very distracting. So don't do it.

Insert a blank slide.

Go to
"Insert", then click
"Drawing"

Google docs

Presentation Introduction edited on September 8, 2009 3:37 AM by Bill Blevins

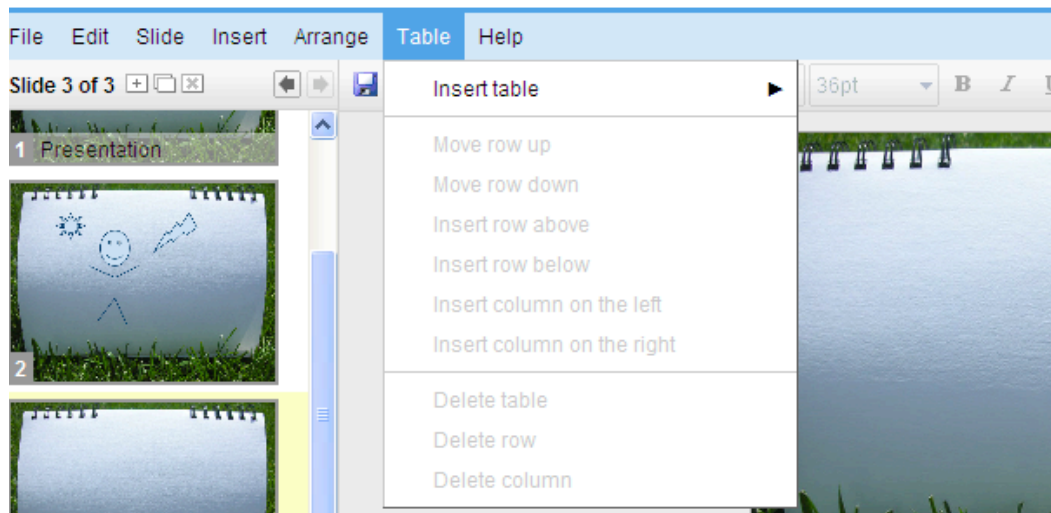

Go ahead and spend a few minutes and see what you can do here. When done click "Save and Close".

Create another blank slide.
Go to "Table" then "Insert Table". Put in a 3 x 3 table. Remember columns are up and down and rows are across.

Google docs

Presentation Introduction edited on September 8, 2009 3:37 AM by Bill Blevins

Make a tic-tac-toe game. Center the letters and vertically center the letters. Also, increase the font size.

